Persons leaving the city for the summer can have Tim Curric mailed to their address at 40 cents per month, postage paid.

DOWN WITH THE DUST. There is no city in the United States so favored as Washington with charming suburban drives. Whatever road the traveler takes, the scenery in the immediate vicinity of the Capital is unsurpassed in attractiveness and variety. Woodlands, hills, vales, shady nooks, babbling brooks, cultivated homesteads and nature in her rougher and more rugged aspects, are presented to the view in all directions, while from many elevated points of observation the broad expanse of the Potomac beams silvery on eanopy of the milky way. The drive most generally favored by our citizens is out Fourteenth street and the old Columbia road to the beautiful park of the Soldiers' Home. Here, too thousands of summer visitors and stranger are constantly attracted by the magnificent grounds of the Home and the beauty of the intervening landscape; but there is one serious drawback to the pleasure of the ride which ought to be obvinted.

The clouds of dust encountered in dry weather, after crossing Boundary street, and from there on to the entrance gate, arising from the continuous line of carriages and vehicles passing to and from the Home, or along other prominent roads leading into the main thoroughfare of travel, are a discomfort and annoyance to visitors which sadly mar the agreeable ness of what is otherwise the most de lightful drive in the country.

If our District Commissioners would cause the road from Boundary street to the entrance of the park to be sprinkled daily, they would merit and receive the thanks of thousands of citizens and others, who, during the season, drive out to the Soldiers' Home. The expense would be but a trifle compared to the resulting benefit and satisfaction.

Messrs. Commissioners, put on the sprinkling carts at once, and for your long tife and happiness your petitioners will ever pray, &c.

MR. KEILEY AT SEA.

Minister Keiley is having a great deal of trouble and has just written home from Paris a most seathing attack upon Old Ocean. He came pretty near throwing up his commission on the way over, and says he is satisfied that in a pro tracted voyage he would "commit simply a salivary hari-kari-spit myself away.

He pronounces the sea to be the great source of human happiness-by keeping away from it. "For ten days," he writes "which seemed a lustrum, the vengeful sea smote me hip and thigh, pilloried me at every mast, hung me at every spar, morphed the deck with me, confounded me utterly. Nor did peace enter my soul or serenity my alimentary department until a full hundred miles of France' fairest fields stretched between me and the dull, slimy, hissing, reeling, wretched, double-faced sea."

It would be a pity to recall Mr. Kelley just now. He ought to be given at least six months before being asked to take another sea voyage. A man of his prominence should not be exposed to the temp tation to commit "salivary bari-kari."

A MONUMENT TO PEACE.

While the Republicans out in Ohio are making efforts to revive war issues and fight the old sectional battle over again in the coming campaign, the citizens of Georgia, irrespective of the uniform they wore, are combining in a movement to build a monument at Atlanta to commemorate the valor and virtues of the American soldier.

It is estimated that the structure will cost nearly a hundred thousand dollars, and the corner-stone is to be laid in Westview Cemetery on Sunday next, the anniversary of the battle of Ezra Church, which was fought June 28, 1864. The design is thus described by the Atlanta Constitution :

Constitution:

For the pedestal there will be a monumental fort with immense walls of stone, inclusing two rooms and a vault, the former for the meeting of the association whenever there is a gathering there, and the latter to serve as a receptacle for the remains of the unknown dead who are discovered from time to time on the old buftleneds. On each corner of this fort a soldler stands guard, and two cannons in position will surmount the structure. Towering skyward will be the column of granite, beautiful in design and imposing in appearance. Near the base of the column, in niches, will be statues of Grant, Lee, Johnson and Sherman, Near the top of the column will be two soldlers, the blue and the gray, clasping hands, and at the top of the column, standing on a globe, will be the goddess of liberty. On the cap and base stones of the fort the following mottoes will be inscribed: 'Union and Liberty,' 'United We Stand-Divided We Fall,' 'E Phreibus Unun,' 'What Ged Hath Joined Together Let Not Min Put Asunder,' 'God of the Free Our Nation Blees.'

We are disposed to think that the war is over, in spite of the Olno attempt to keep

MR. HENDRICKS AT YALE. In his address at Yale yesterday Vice President Hendricks said that the United States Supreme Court was the greatest judicial tribunal in the world. Unlike the English court it is not subject to the legislative branch of the Government. It can ray to Congress that such and such action is forbidden by the Constitution, and Congress has to submit. But in rendering such a decision as that in the legal-tender cases the court passed beyond the sphere of ordinary judicial inquiry into the field of statesroanship.

Mr. Hendricks praised Justice Waite's decision as to the relative rights of a citizen under State and Federal laws, that each must protect the citizen, but neither could pass the barrier line taid down in the Constitution.

The original Judicial system of the country was completed in less than half a page of printed matter, yet this difficult work has kept full pace with the development of the country in its growth from thirteen much the mission of the Vice-President to criticise as te praise; and consequently the term "offensive partisanship" found no place in his remarks. It might have been otherwise-but this was an oration and not a stump-speech

SENATOR GORMAN is credited with mak ing some rather peculiar remarks about office-seekers. He says it is not true that the President wants to see most of the applicants in person so that he can "size em up." He would prefer to have many of them stay away. He has seen men go off a lunch route into the White House loaded with beer and cheese or bad whisky, and does not wonder that they have had to put fan ventilators in the Executive Mansioa. Mr. Gorman says that a man has a better show if he has some personal friend of good standing to introduce his papers or himself. Everybody that gets left goes away saying this is a sheol of an administration, and I guess Mr. Cleveland is glad they are beginning to think so."

SENATOR VOORHEES is in Tennessee show ing the natives what an Indiana man from the banks of the Wabash can do in the oratorical way when he once set about it. In Chattanooga, yesterday morning early, be began a speech for the defense in the Johnson murder case, and it was half-past twelve before he finished. The [court-room was crowded, and Mr. Voorhees swayed the great audience with his eloquence till it quivered with emotion like a forest of aspen leaves. His peroration brought everybody present to tears, including judge and jury, and such a disthe sight like a reflection from the starry play of moistened pocket-handkerchiefs was never known in the history of the country.

SECRETARY MANNING'S theory in regard o the removal of Appraiser Dent of San Francisco is that an office of such im portance, for the conduct of which the Administration will be held directly responsible, should be in the hands of a man to whom the Administration is politically related. The theory may be a correct one. It should also be noted that it covers a good deal of ground to which the civil-service reformers have heretofore asserted a sort of pre-emption right.

WE HAVE received from the Depart ment of Agriculture a pamphlet on "The Periodical Cleada," It is embellished with numerous designs of locusts in various hideous and warlike attitudes. The letter-press below these diagrams informs us that they are all "After Riley." We hope the accomplished entomologist of the Department will be able to get away

"Nor one postmaster in a hundred in Virginia can remain," says the Richmond State, "if the policy of civil-service reform is to be enforced." As Mr. Vilas was elected on a civil-service reform platform the ninety and nine may as well pack up and vacate.

It looks as if Mr. M. C. Quay would cer tainly be Pennsylvania's next treasurer Most of the counties that have so far held conventions have instructed for him. He is a manager who seldom miscalculates.

Miss Nannie Tilghman, daughter of the ate Captain Tilghman of the navy, was narried at Baltimore yesterday morning to Mr. Theodore Lurman. They will sail for Europe June 27. The welding was a very ulet one on account of the recent death f the groom's mother.

Mas. WRIGHT, to whom Mr. Thomas O'Connor, member of Parliament for Galway, was married in London a few days ago, was at one time the fiancee of Mr.
Ifurlbert, formerly editor of the World, and accompanied him to the Vanderbilt ball costumed as a nun. Mr. O'Connor is her third matrimonial venture.

Mr. Thomas Whitridge of Boston and Miss Caroline Sigourney of Baltimore daughter of the late Andrew Sigourney were married last night at Christ Church Baltimore, by the Rev. W. W. Williams. Though no invitations were sent out, there was a large attendance. Mr. George II. Ferguson, uncle to the bride, gave her away. She was attired in white tulle, with a waist of white satin, and carried a hand bounget of roses. Mr. McDonald McBlair of Washington was one of the ushers, and among those present was Dr. J. C. LITERARY NEWS NOTES.

POVERTY CORNER-A City Story," by G. Manville Fenn, published by the Cassell Company (Limited), New York, and sold in Washington at Brentano's, is a good story, and told in a very clever manner. It is filled with exciting incident, and the story, and told in a very elever manner. It is filled with exciting incident, and the numerous characters are drawn with much strength and originality. There is, of course, the pair of young lovers, diligently pursuing that regulation course of true love which leads them, through much trial and tribulation, to a final happy union. But it is not essentially a love story. The reader frequently loses sight of little Patty and her heartache in the more stirring adventures of the other characters. The chief charm of the book, however, lies in the beauty and quaintness of its description. What could be better, for instance, than the portrayal of "D. Wragg, Naturalist," and his surroundings, or the chapter devoted to the unhappy musings of Jared Pellet in the organ loft, whither he has gone to practice, and the equally unhappy endeavors of the "blow boy" to amuse himself while waiting for his master to commence. We congratulate Mr. Fenn upon the production of a work at once so meritorious and so certain of a warm welcome from the reading realing. and so certain of a warm welcome from the reading public.

Harper's Monthly for July has, among other good things, the initial chapters of a new novel by W. D. Howells, which promises to be extremely interesting; also an amusing short story by Robert Burdette.

The "Biogen Series," now in course of publication by Estes & Lauriat, Boston, under the editorial supervision of Dr. Elliott Coues, is intended as a compilation of short and pertinent essays by writers of recognized eminence upon questions of economic reform or of historical research. in religion, science and philosophy. The disquisitions being thus presented in a form to catch the popular eye, will be all the more likely to seize upon the popular taste and stir new channels of human thought. The first of the series was the "Biogen" of Dr. Coues; "A Speculation on the Origin and Nature of Life," which was followed by "The Daemon of Darwin" by the same author, which will be remembered as originally prepared for a memorial address before the National Medical College at Washington in October, 1882. This has been followed by "A Buddhist Catechism, According to the Canon of the Southern Church," by Henry S. Olcott, president of the Theosophical Society, the first American edition of a work of which many thousand copies both in the vernacular and in English have been put in circulation throughout Burmah and Ceylon. It is the only succinct exposition of the beliefs of the Sinhalese Buddhists which has ever been presented to the reading public of the United States and is profusely annotated both by author and editor.

The Petersons of Philadelphia have published a new and cheap edition of "Kathleen," one of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's best stories.

Appleton & Co. have added to their tasteful parchment series a volume of extracts from the prose writings of Jona-than Swift, containing a portrait of the great satirist, with preface and notes by Stanley Lane-Poole. The letter-press and binding are particularly neat, and the literary work of the editor done with ex-cellent indexent. The book will be found ellent judgment. The book will be found at Brentano's.

St. Nicholas for July opens with an interesting sketch by Edward Eggleston, en teresting sketch by Edward Eggleston, entitled "A School of Long Ago." It also contains an article by Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, on "The Children of the Cold," and in "A School Afloat" Ensign Gibbons of the navy and Charles Barnard explain how patriotic American boys are made into practical American sailors. The frontispiece, entitled "The Pet Fawn," is from a drawing by Mary Hallock Foote, and there is a number of bright, short stories and poems by Laura E. Richards, Irene Putnam and others. The following is Helen Gray Cone's contribution:

THE LAND WITHOUT A NAME. Where the Sun sails bold on the Sea of Gold Past the Violet Islands fair, And the ragged shapes of the Rosy Capes, And the Custles of the Air— And the Castles of the Air—
Can you call aright all that country bright.
That is washed by waves like flame?
T is the coast admired, 't is the clime desired,
Of the Land Without a Name,
And the way to go, if you fain would know,
Is to charter the Crescent Ship,
All of silver paie, with a cobweb sail—
And merrily does she dip!
There's a crew of Hopes at her filmy ropes,
And on board that ship of fame
Many a longing Dream seeks the shores agleam
Of the Land Without a Name.
